

BRING PENNIES FOR EACH
YEAR OF THEIR AGES

Novel Entertainment Is Given by Earnest Workers' Society of Houston Baptist Church.

KARL JANSEN TO BE SEEN

Will Present American Comedy.
"Davy Crockett," in Which He Will Portray Ten Different Characters—Interest in Civic League.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
HOUSTON, VA., May 13.—The County Women's Christian Temperance Union held its semi-annual convention in Houston on Thursday. The body convened in the morning at the Methodist Church. Mrs. A. E. Willis, of South Boston, presided. Many delegates were in attendance, nearly every local union being represented. Lunch was served at the church at 1 o'clock.

The Earnest Workers' Society of the Baptist Church gave a novel entertainment at the Halifax Inn on Friday evening from 8 to 11. Mrs. D. K. Burton, president of the society, required each person attending the party to bring a penny for each letter in his or her name. Sacks were distributed through the town, with an announcement of the event written in verse. A large crowd, attracted by the novelty of the affair, attended.

Karl Jansen, famous Swedish entertainer, will make his second appearance in Houston on Saturday, May 20. He will present the American comedy, "Davy Crockett," and will take the part of ten different characters.

The Civic League held a meeting at the residence of Mrs. R. Holt Easley on Wednesday afternoon. Interest in the work of the league has increased, partly as the result of the recent visit of Mrs. J. Douglas Wright, of Richmond, assistant secretary of the Virginia Co-operative Education Association.

Miss Emma Edmunds and Miss Rose Lee Williamson visited Richmond this week.

H. B. Stebbins, Jr., left on Sunday for Richmond, where he has accepted a position.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Draper left on Tuesday for Roanoke, where they attended the funeral of Mr. Draper's brother-in-law, Walcott.

Miss Helen Barksdale is the guest of relatives and friends in Richmond.

Alfred D. Barksdale, of Lynchburg, visited the home of his father, J. Douglas Wright, of Richmond, during the past week.

Miss Emma Edmunds is spending the week as the guest of relatives in Richmond and Lynchburg.

John Martin and Marshall B. Hooker spent several days in Richmond this week.

Mrs. Robert W. Watkins is the guest of relatives in Richmond.

BOYDTON

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BOYDTON, VA., May 13.—R. H. Haskins, of Canby, visited friends here on Sunday.

Mrs. Haskins Williams is visiting friends and relatives in Richmond.

The Boydton Club was entertained by Miss Laura Townes on Friday.

Dave Clark is visiting relatives and friends in North Carolina.

Mr. Cole returned to Norfolk this week after a visit to this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Baptist and little daughter, Marjorie, of North Carolina, visited relatives here the first of the week.

The young women of Boydton gave a leap-year dance at the Town Hall on Wednesday night.

On the evening of May 4 a unique and enjoyable supper was served at the Briggs' House, under the auspices of the Civic Improvement League.

Support began at 7:30 and lasted until a late hour. The menu cards were attractive, and the food was excellent.

On the menu were found: Cold Chicken, Creamed Corn, Cucumber Salad, Canned Fruit, Cereal Compound, and Churned Cream, County Corn, Corned Beef, Corned Ham, Corned Pork, Corned Sausage, Corned Turkey, Corned Veal, Corned Beef, Corned Ham, Corned Pork, Corned Turkey, Corned Veal.

The lawn was hung with white and pink streamers, and the tables were set with white and pink cloths. The evening was a success, and the guests were well entertained.

On the evening of May 4 a unique and enjoyable supper was served at the Briggs' House, under the auspices of the Civic Improvement League.

Support began at 7:30 and lasted until a late hour. The menu cards were attractive, and the food was excellent.

On the menu were found: Cold Chicken, Creamed Corn, Cucumber Salad, Canned Fruit, Cereal Compound, and Churned Cream, County Corn, Corned Beef, Corned Ham, Corned Pork, Corned Turkey, Corned Veal.

The lawn was hung with white and pink streamers, and the tables were set with white and pink cloths. The evening was a success, and the guests were well entertained.

Reviews and News of Latest Books

Society Novel and Detective
Story Contributed to Spring
Literature.

"Instead of the Thorn." By Clara
Soule Burnham. Houghton Mifflin
Co.

A society novel of the West with many of the usual types and situations, notably the spectacular success of a self-made man, who ventures at last, far, and the logical result of unlimited riches upon the character of his children.

The story opens at the climax of Lambert Barry's career, when his youngest daughter, Linda, having inherited the fortune, has just made her entrance into the gayest and most extravagant society of Chicago.

Linda is a law unto herself and the autocrat of her home. She exemplifies the American social system, of our time—almost education of youth at the expense of maturity, the most interesting, as well as effectual period of life.

It is this feeling that holds fathers to the treadmill of business long after they have earned the right to the enjoyment of leisure and the gratification of their own tastes in order that their children, particularly their daughters, may be further steeped in luxury and have more to spend upon their pleasures and adornment.

Impulsiveness, selfishness, careless cruelty, are the natural outcome of over-indulgence, and we are not surprised to find Linda's finer traits obscured by those characteristics. On the contrary, we wonder how her father, an elder sister, has escaped their influence. She is, indeed, that rare being, a multimillionaire's daughter, who has kept her perspective, is capable, conscientious, broadminded, unselfish, an admirable wife and mother.

Early in the course of the story the father is ruined in circumstances which come by the most unexpected turn upon his business associate and adviser, Bertram King, who bears the undeserved blame in silence. Bertram has loved Linda, but she is not aware that he does not think her faultless, and as she cannot bear the most tacit disapproval, or even implied criticism, she consistently refuses him.

Her father sinks under the blow of his failure, and Linda, who really loved him, is crushed by his loss and threatened disgrace. It is at this time that she comes to put the responsibility of her father's ruin upon a leaf torn from a calendar on which this Bible verse appears, "Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree."

Impressed by her in her retrospective mood, deeply and later when she has been persuaded to go to her aunt's village home in New England, and slowly regaining her poise and taking up life again, she begins to realize its meaning in the light of her own changed nature. Every fault overcome, she feels, is a thorn removed, and in its stead the beginning of a nobler growth comes.

A religious note strikes the personality of Mrs. Porter, the friend and mentor, who has preceded her to the cape, and whose loving sympathy and counsel have helped her to better things.

Bertram King, the insulted, almost hated, but still faithful lover after superhuman efforts that have landed him at death's door, saves the good name of the firm, and protects the good investors from loss. He then dies, a victim of circumstances, into the same haven that holds his beloved, where he is cleared of blame, the risky speculation being really a rat trap.

There are explanations, love-making, and a stereotyped, but satisfactory ending.

"The Master Detective." By Percy James Brehner. E. P. Dutton & Co.

Almost every one is bound to confess at least at some times his life to a weakness for detective stories, while for many of us they never lose their fascination.

It is, therefore, not surprising that we have a perennial crop of tales of crimes and mysteries, and of the preternaturally astute persons who solve them.

Modern taste seems, however, to demand a different type of hero from the old-fashioned detective, in place of the dashing officer of Scotland Yard, the keen-witted Parisian agent and our own roguish sleuth, the dilettante, the amateur, the consultant has made his appearance. He is a wooden figure whose genius irresistibly impels him to marvelous feats of deduction from infinitesimal beginnings. He does not look for his own sake, remaining modestly in the background and invariably giving the credit to the obtuse but well-meaning professional who assists in the investigation.

Such is Christopher Quirk, professor of philosophy, who, testing the direction of dark crimes and seemingly impenetrable mysteries, and whose mind finds its relaxation in their solution.

He has a system of his own which demands for its proper working a certain location and surroundings, and often the presence of his daughter, Zena, whose "foolish questions," he claims, effect his trend of thought and frequently put him upon the right track.

Quirk is an eccentric, and rather disagreeable, old gentleman, but as the detective, Wikan, not only desires his help, but his daughter also, harmony between them is preserved, and together they work out their problems.

The collection of fifteen stories, though perhaps not in the front rank of such literature, are sufficiently ingenious in construction to be interesting, and well enough executed for the writer's purpose. There are few real thrills, and the suspense is at all times endurable, but the action is generally brisk, the theme unacknowledged, and the stories worked up to a clever climax, making altogether an acceptable addition to this class of action.

"Neglected Points of Auction Bridge." By Carl Ehlermann Harper & Bros.

In the last half-dozen years we have amassed a considerable literature on auction bridge, but on account of the continual changes and developments in the game much that has been written on the subject has become obsolete and has been abandoned and the new wave of 1915 definitely established, the game seems at last fixed in form, and a book containing up-to-the-minute instruction is of great interest and value to lovers of this game of skill.

The author emphasizes the fine points most frequently neglected both by players and editors. His analysis is of all the minor complexities of the game, and his object being to improve the mediocre players and bring him up to real proficiency. This one can only be attained by an understanding of those fine points that distinguish the play of the master. He believes that most players will be the better for instruction, and can all attain a higher proficiency.

His exposition is very clear as well as thorough, and to follow it will not be necessary to turn to the card deck, unless, indeed, the last chapter—which contains the most complex situations of the game—demands its use.

"What Shall We Read to the Children?" By Clara W. Hunt. Houghton Mifflin Co.

Ours is a fortunate age for children. Its physical, mental and spiritual needs are understood and provided for as never before. There is no longer excuse for ignorance or carelessness in teaching a child. So alive, indeed, is the public to the supreme importance of this subject that it would be difficult for any one to escape some knowledge of it, even though that person should be conceivably indifferent to it.

Knowledge of it is now a broad-based, we glean information from numberless sources. The press, popular lectures, visiting nurses spread it abroad. Childhood is now a science, a cult—its claims almost a religion.

We have physical directors for the children, specialists for their ailments, experts for their teachers, their dentists, and their own well-equipped libraries, and their own voluminous literature.

Miss Hunt is a child's librarian, and out of her wide experience, and her enthusiasm for her work, has written this exceedingly suggestive and valuable book. She is almost unannounced in report with the childish mind, divining its point of view with wonderful insight and insight.

She urges that childish curiosity, which is only another name for thirst for knowledge, be encouraged and directed, and speaks at length of the part which books play in fulfilling that requirement, particularly the books that are familiarized for the first seven years of their lives.

Follows a catalogue of the books that she considers the best for this purpose. She leads the way in poetry. Every normal baby born into this world with him a love for poetry, she states, and should have his precious sense of delight carefully fostered by all the loveliest lullabies, and sweet, old songs. Next in importance she ranks nature and travel books, and fairy stories, true stories, books of occupations, and books of branches of reading are capably and handsomely covered. Indeed the author proves herself a competent authority in the sympathetic adviser in this important branch of child training.

Miss Mary Cameron has been spending the week with friends in Washington.

John W. Scott has returned from a visit to relatives in Lynchburg.

Miss Marie Ford, after a stay of several weeks at her home in Richmond, has returned to her home in Richmond.

Miss H. Scott, of Richmond, was the guest this week of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Scott, in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kincaid and little daughter, after visiting Mrs. Kincaid's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dowell, near town, have returned to their home at Covington.

Miss Nellie Hale has gone to Charlottesville, where she will make her home.

Mrs. J. R. Yeager and little daughter have returned from a visit to her aunt, Mrs. W. E. Cunningham, at Louisa.

Captain R. P. Allen left on Wednesday for Detroit, Mich., to attend the convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Mr. Allen was accompanied by his family. They will visit relatives in Indiana before returning to their home here.

Miss Violet E. Allen was married in Washington on Monday.

Miss Effie Whitton was the guest of friends in Lynchburg last week.

Mrs. Howard Henderson was in Lynchburg shopping last Friday.

Miss Ruth Maurice, of New York, is the guest of Miss Harriet Evans.

Miss Lois Ligon, of Lynchburg, was the guest of Miss Marion Dearborn last week.

Robert Dameron has returned to his home in Minneapolis, Minn. He was called to Amherst on account of the illness of his mother, Mrs. C. D. Dameron.

Mrs. Antrim Colner and son, of Tyne River, last week were guests at Captain T. O. Troy's.

Mrs. M. Robertson is the guest of Mrs. William Robertson at Emporia. Before returning home Mrs. Robertson will visit Mrs. Archie Robertson at Portsmouth.

Mrs. George Sprague and children, of Idaho, are visiting at Mrs. M. H. Robertson's.

Miss Rosalie Harrison, who spent the past month in Petersburg, returned home last Saturday.

Charles A. Joubert was called to Waynesboro on Monday on account of the illness of Mrs. C. L. Scott, Jr.

Mrs. S. M. Willis on last Monday attended the funeral of little James Dillard in Lynchburg.

Mrs. Ernest Burch was called to Lynchburg on Monday on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Pendleton.

Miss Nell Brown Wood, of Richmond, is the guest of the Misses Drummond at their home near Amherst.

William Hewitt left on Monday for New York.

the trial by fire that purges the dross from Jimmy, bringing him to his "hour and his own."

Perhaps the most gripping portion of this powerful novel is that of which Belgium is the theater. Here the author writes with a pen dipped in his own experience, for she was with the famous Munro expedition, and was at the actual front line of battle.

GORDONSVILLE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
GORDONSVILLE, VA., May 13.—Misses Kathleen and Mae Michie, of Thelma, are visiting their grandparents, Captain and Mrs. C. J. Johnston.

Mrs. C. W. Matthews was an Orange visitor this week.

R. I. Eggleston, of Richmond, has been spending the week with his daughter, Mrs. John Scott Cowherd, near town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Matthews will leave on Sunday for a visit to relatives and friends in the West. They will be in Galion, O., Terre Haute and Kokomo, Ind., and Paris and Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. R. B. Rawlings, of Lindsay, was the guest of friends in the city on a visit to relatives in Richmond.

W. B. Houghan was in Richmond on Thursday on business.

H. O. Lyne, of Orange, was a Gordonsville visitor Tuesday.

St. James' Episcopal and Little Son of Harboursville, were Gordonsville visitors on Tuesday.

Professor J. Walton Hall and family have returned from Beaver Dam to spend their vacation. Professor Hall's school at this place having closed for the season.

Mrs. R. G. Watkins has returned from a visit to relatives in Richmond. She was accompanied home by her sister, Miss Mary Michie, and also by Mrs. C. C. Michie and children, who will spend some time in Gordonsville.

John W. Cowherd and family, of Lexington, have arrived here and are occupying their new home, which they purchased from J. W. Harlow, just south of Gordonsville.

Miss Mary Cameron has been spending the week with friends in Washington.

John W. Scott has returned from a visit to relatives in Lynchburg.

Miss Marie Ford, after a stay of several weeks at her home in Richmond, has returned to her home in Richmond.

Miss H. Scott, of Richmond, was the guest this week of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Scott, in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kincaid and little daughter, after visiting Mrs. Kincaid's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dowell, near town, have returned to their home at Covington.

Miss Nellie Hale has gone to Charlottesville, where she will make her home.

Mrs. J. R. Yeager and little daughter have returned from a visit to her aunt, Mrs. W. E. Cunningham, at Louisa.

Captain R. P. Allen left on Wednesday for Detroit, Mich., to attend the convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Mr. Allen was accompanied by his family. They will visit relatives in Indiana before returning to their home here.

Miss Violet E. Allen was married in Washington on Monday.

Miss Effie Whitton was the guest of friends in Lynchburg last week.

Mrs. Howard Henderson was in Lynchburg shopping last Friday.

Miss Ruth Maurice, of New York, is the guest of Miss Harriet Evans.

Miss Lois Ligon, of Lynchburg, was the guest of Miss Marion Dearborn last week.

Robert Dameron has returned to his home in Minneapolis, Minn. He was called to Amherst on account of the illness of his mother, Mrs. C. D. Dameron.

Mrs. Antrim Colner and son, of Tyne River, last week were guests at Captain T. O. Troy's.

Mrs. M. Robertson is the guest of Mrs. William Robertson at Emporia. Before returning home Mrs. Robertson will visit Mrs. Archie Robertson at Portsmouth.

Mrs. George Sprague and children, of Idaho, are visiting at Mrs. M. H. Robertson's.

Miss Rosalie Harrison, who spent the past month in Petersburg, returned home last Saturday.

Charles A. Joubert was called to Waynesboro on Monday on account of the illness of Mrs. C. L. Scott, Jr.

Mrs. S. M. Willis on last Monday attended the funeral of little James Dillard in Lynchburg.

Mrs. Ernest Burch was called to Lynchburg on Monday on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Pendleton.

Miss Nell Brown Wood, of Richmond, is the guest of the Misses Drummond at their home near Amherst.

William Hewitt left on Monday for New York.

Newark, N. J., where he will spend several weeks.

Mrs. Fred B. Webster and little daughter left on Wednesday for Missoula, Mont., where they will join Mr. Webster, who is now in business there.

Rev. J. R. Ellis, of Yancey, is visiting his sister, Miss Mary C. Ellis.

Mrs. Anna White, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. C. D. Dameron, returned to her home at Clifton, Bedford County.

Mrs. C. M. Freeman entertained a number of her friends at attractive luncheon last Thursday. Covers were laid for six. Those present were Mrs. J. A. Thomas, Misses Modones Charles and Mrs. Parshall, of Pittsburgh.

On Thursday afternoon "Arendia," the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dearborn, Miss Marion Dearborn had the weekly meeting of the bridge club.

At the conclusion of the game Mrs. A. E. Strode was awarded a dainty collar and cuff set for making the high score, while Mrs. Otey Goggin was given the guest prize. The honor guests were Mrs. Lee Beasley, Mrs. Otey Goggin and Miss Lois Ligon, of Lynchburg. The members of the club present were Misses Bessie Robertson and Emma Saunders, Misses Charles A. Joubert, A. E. Strode, S. M. Willis, W. P. Reed, Percy Page and Mr. Peyton R. Evans.

ORANGE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
ORANGE, VA., May 13.—Mrs. Marvin Harris is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Scott, of Fredericksburg.

Dr. Henry DeJarnette, of Fredericksburg, spent several days this week with his brother, Elliott DeJarnette.

Mrs. Frances Tredway, who has been the guest of Mrs. R. L. Macon, returned on Thursday to her home in Cleveland, O.

The Orange Literary and Nature Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Timberlake on Saturday afternoon.

L. S. Macon spent several days in Richmond last week.

Miss Evelyn Marshall, who has been on a visit to Miss Maria Marshall at Mission Home, Greene County, returned to Orange on Wednesday.

Mr. George J. Hickey, of Philadelphia, was a guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Moncreux for several days last week.

Mrs. J. C. McFall and son, Hasking, who have been guests of Mrs. John Grimes, returned to their home in Danville a few days ago.

The Marshall Heights Thirteen Club was entertained by Miss Florence Garrett on Friday night.

Miss Susie Halsey, who has been on a visit of several months to her sister, Mrs. John Kilby, of Norfolk, returned to Orange on Thursday.

Mrs. C. C. Page spent the past week in Richmond.

Miss Anna Wombersie, of Stony Point, spent the last week-end with her parents, Captain and Mrs. John Wombersie, at Charlton.

John Johnson was hostess to the Junior Bridge Club on Wednesday afternoon.

Colonel E. F. Golson was a visitor to Charlottesville on Thursday.

Miss Lucile Paxton, of Washington, is spending some time at Berry Hill, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Williams.

Mrs. William H. Lyne and daughter, Miss Cassie Lyne, who have been at Atlantic City, N. J., returned home on Sunday.

Mrs. Hubert House returned home on Monday after a visit of several weeks to Remington, Va.

Miss Ella T. Agnew, of Richmond, was the guest of Mrs. Robert D. Brown last week.

Mrs. J. I. Hall, Mrs. Dougherty, Miss Jessie Dougherty and Mrs. Daniel, who have been in Lynchburg, returned to Remington, Va.

Some folks would have you believe that they have discovered some new method of restoring the color to gray hair, without streaking or using any of the leading drug stores sell "Brownatone." Two sizes, 25c and 45c. Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser.

Prepared by The Kention Pharmaceutical Co., 236 E. Pike St., Covington, Ky. Sold and guaranteed in Richmond by Tragle Drug Co., Grant Drug Co. and other leading druggists.

have been spending the past year in Orange, returned to their home in Macon, Ga., on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Moncreux and daughters, Misses Louis and Anne, expected to leave on Monday for a visit to Washington.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

Miss Mary Adams, of Lynchburg, is the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.

Miss Frances Hay is the guest of Miss Mary Minor Morris, of Richmond.

the guest of Mrs. Seddon P. Boxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Lucy Bolton, who has been the guest of Mrs. Judge Riley, of Richmond, returned to Orange on Saturday.